FREE FIGHTS IN PLENTY IN THE LAND OF THE SHAMROCK.

The Parnell and McCurthy Claus Break One Another's Hends-John Dillon Laid Up for a While-Political Arguments Ea forced by Shillainhs and Brickbats-The Rioting was Resumed Lust Night,

DUBLIN, Oct. 29.-Patrick McDermott, the McCarthyite candidate, has been elected without opposition to the seat in the House of Commons for North Kilkenny left vacant by the death of Sir John Pope Hennessy. The nomi-nation was given to Mr. McDermott after it had been declined by Michael Davitt.

Conk. Oct. 29. - Thirty-two persons, more or City Hospital for injuries received during the free fights that occurred last night between McCarthyites and Parnellites.

John Dillon was pursued last night, while driving to attend an auti-Parnellite meeting, and pelted with stones. He received a severe blow on the knee from a stick. Dr. Tanner says the injury is not of a serious nature, but on account of the swelling, Mr. Dillon must keep quiet. Consequently be must stop canvassing Cork city for the McCarthyites.

The fighting which took place between the McCarthyites and Parnellites last night in the streets of this city was more serious than appeared from the first reports received at Police Headquarters. There was a series of severe scrimmages between the contending parties. the most severe being the one in which Mr. Dillon was disabled. Crowds of McCarthritas. who were accompanying Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien on their way to attend a McCarthylta meeting in the market place, came into collision with a torchlight procession of Parnellites, headed by a brass band.

Neither crowd would give way to the other and a hot and general fight followed, several thousand combatants taking part. Blackthousand combatants taking part. Blackthorns were used with effect, and bricks and stones were thrown. Finally the McCarthyltes took their torches from the Parnellites and stamped them under foot and continued their march. Upon arriving at the market place, William O'Brien addressed a meeting composed of about 5,000 McCarthyltes, who vigorously applicated the telling points made by that orator. The market place, while the meeting was taking place, was illuminated by scorees of blazing tar barrels and hundreds of torches. In their enthusiasm, several women elimbed upon the jaunting car from which
Mr. O'Brien was speaking and tried to embrace him.

climbed upon the jaunting car from which Mr. O'Brien was speaking and tried to embrace him.

Meanwhile the Parnellites found ranforcements and made another onslaught upon the McCarthyites, and a scene which will long be remembered followed. They charged into the square, hitting right and left with their blackthorns, trying to force their way to the car upon which stood Mr. O'Brien and his supporters. The Parnellites prossed on with shouts of derision, which were answered by fierce cries upon the part of the McCarthyites. The latter, though they fought with desperate energy, were slowly driven back, and with howls of triumph the Parnellites overturned the blazing tar barrels and kicked and rolled them into the river. Then for a time the Parnellites held the market place.

The McCarthyites sought reenforcements, and in a compact body made a dash at the Parnellites in the market place. The blackthorns were plied again without mercy. After a desperate battle the Parnellite forces were routed. Many on both sides were injured, in addition to these already reported.

Similar scenes occurred at Bandon, twenty miles from here. The streets of that town were filled with rival torchlight processions ready for a fight, and there were numerous affrays between the opposing parties. While a procession of McCarthyites was passing the Butter Exchange the occupants of that building jeered, and the McCarthyites haited and burst in the doors in spite of a shower of missiles thrown at them from the windows, and completely wrecked the board room. During the fight a number of persons were seriously injured.

During the fight a number of periods in the elec-seriously injured.

This city to-day is full of echoes of the elec-tion fights of last night. The angry passions aroused have not by any means calmed down. A priest, who was cheering for Mr. Redmond, the Parnellite candidate, was struck in the face with a stick, handled by a McCarthyite, with such terrific force that one eye was de-terved. troyed. In spite of his doctor's orders Mr. Dillon

In spite of his doctor's orders Mr. Dillon drove out this afternoon and addressed several meetings, the McCarthyites being more afraid of the quiet canvassing of the Unionists than of the work of the Parnellites. They argue that Mr. Redmond has little chance of winning a seat which Mr. Parnell himself feared to vacate, and they openly accuse Mr. Redmond of merely desiring a theatrical exit from Irish polities, knowing that his own electors are about to reject him for a McCarthyite. Mr. Redmond, in a speech to-day, said he regretted the attack made last night on Mr. Dillon. Mr. Redmond denied the truth of Mr. O'Brien's statement that he (Redmond) had broken the Boulogne pleiges. It was not he, but it was Mr. Parnell, who proposed that Mr. O'Brien be made temporary leader of the Irish party.

Late this afternoon it seemed as if a collision between the persons present at two opposing meetings was imminent, as many members of both factions were armed with stout blackthorns and appeared ready at the least pretext to use their weapons on one another's heads. The threatened melies was severed, however, by the action of John O'Connor, who forced his massive form through the dense and excited crowd toward the spot where the carcentaining Mr.O'Brien was standing. Arriving at the ear, Mr.O'Connor held a hurried and whispored covcersation with Mr.O'Brien, and finally the two men linked arms and in this manner passed through the crowd and walked away in the direction of the hotal.

At a Parnellite meeting this evening Mr.O'Connor produced an instrument which he described as an assogal, and said he had wrested it from the hand of a McCarthyite.

Mr.O'Connor indignantly declared that he would never speak to Mr.O'Brien again, for when he interfered to preserve peace at the afternoon meeting Mr.O'Brien had the audacity to say: "Come with me, John, and I will protect you."

Late to english a force of Parnellites marched ity to say: "Come with me, John, and I will protect you." Late to-night a force of Parnellites marched out and made an attack on an anti-Parnellite meeting. A terrible flight ensued, Mr. O'Connor receiving a serious wound behind the ear from a police truncheon, he says. Showers of stones were thrown and many persons were injured, including William Redmond. The police used their batons freely. At a late hour the streets were still filled with excited crowds. Michael Davitt announced at Killarney to-day that he would be a candidate for Parliament at the general election, in order to have the honor of assisting in the passage of the Home Rule bill. He said that it was the universal feeling in America that the strife in Ireland must cease; and he appealed to the common sense and patriotism of the country to insist upon peace.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—A meeting of Liberal leaders is talked of to take steps to put an end to the street rows in Ireland, which are causing great harm to the Home Rule cause in England, and seriously menacing the prospects of the Liberal party. ELEINS AND BLAINE ARE OUT. If "Steve" Enters the Cabinet it Will be a a Friend of Harrison.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.-The Chicago Herald will print to-morrow the following despatch from Washington:

"If Stephen B. Elkins goes into the Harrison

Cabinet he will go in as a Harrison man and not as a Blaine man. In the President's reported offer of a Cabinet place to Elkins he has been credited with a desire to heap coals of fire on Blaine's head. It was supposed that the elevation of Eikins would be a signal act of friendship and good will on Harrison's part toward Blaine. Elkins having been for years Blaine's confidant and lieutenant. But Elkins and Blaine are no longer friends. They have quarrelled after an intimate friendship of fifteen or twenty years, because Elkins did not carry out certain promises which he had made to Emmons Blaine. Elkins and his father-in-law, ex-Senator Davis, have built in West Virginia a railroad called the West Virginia Central. Davis is President, and Gorman, Bayard, and Blaine are large stockholders. Mr. Blaine made such a large investment in this road that he was some time ago hard pushed for rendy money with which to meet his obligations. Blaine invested heavily in the enterprise largely because he was anxious to provide a place of dignity and importance for his priso largely because he was anxious to provide a place of dignity and importance for his son Emmons, and Elkins promised to make Emmons Vice-President and general manager. His position and future thus seemingly assured, Emmons Blaine married the wealthy Miss McCormick and removed to Baltimore, taking a fine house and settling down to a career in railroading. Elkins made some excuss for delay in the election of young Blaine to the Vice-Presidency, and on one pretext or another posthoped the matter from time to time. Emmons took the post of central passenger agent, and waited somewhat impatiently for Elkins to redeem his promise. Finally Secretary Blaine took the matter in hand and domanded that the place be given to Emmons that was promised him, whereupon the promise was repudiated outright. Then Secretary Blaine and Elkins quarrelled, and young Blaine sought other employment.

"The Vice-President of the West Virginia Central is Stephen B. Elkins himself, and the general manager is C. I. Bretz of Cumberland. This explains why the intimacy between Mr. Blaine and Elkins has been broken off It explains why Elkins has been broken off It explains why Elkins has been broken off it explains why Elkins has not visited Blaine at Bar Harbor and why he did not call on the Secretary in New York when they were both in that city a week ago. It also explains why Elkins has at various times during the last three months given out hints for publication that Blaine was out of the Presidential race and that Harrison would be easily renominated. On Monday and Tuesday last Mr. Elkins was in this city, but he did not see Mr. Blaine. He was, however, twice at the White House in consultation with the President, whose guest he was at luncheon. HUNTING A BUCK IN CONNECTICUT.

The Animal Escapes by Swimming Eight Miles in the Sound to Plum Island. New Haven, Oct. 20.-For several days past sportsmen living in the vicinity of Lyme have been trying to capture a buck which was discovered in the woods near Indian Swamp about a week ago. Yesterday a hunting party was formed and all the available dogs collected for a grand chase. The deer was started and followed during the entire day, but at no and followed during the entire day, but at no time did it run within gunshot of the many men stationed to look out for it. Late in the afternoon the deer ran to the shore of Long Island Sound and was discovered by John Goss, a fisherman, who first mistook it for a cow standing in the water. Upon going nearer he saw that it was a beautiful buck. It waded further into the Sound at his approach, and finally began to swim toward Plum Island, eight miles distant. At dusk the buck was still swimming for the Island, and when seen through glasses was thought to be about half a mile from the shore. The buck is believed to be one of a pair liberated in Hartford about a year ago. The other liberated at the same time was killed on the railroad track at Lyms about a year ago.

License Inspector John Chandler of Newark recently discovered that badge No. 114 for a peddler's license was being used by several men, and he asked the police to look out for the badge. On Wednesday he saw a strange peddler on Broad street and discovered the troublesome badge on the inside of his coat. The peddler said that his name was Isenburg and that he lived at 10 Pitt street, in this city. Chandler arrested him, and the man admitted that he hired the badge from the owner for 25 cents a day. Yesterday afternoon a well-dressed Pole went to Police Headquarters and asked for the captured peddler. He said that he rented the badge to him, and was in the business of renting badges not only for Newark but for every other city in the neighborhood. He said that he made about $150 a year on each badge. Badge No. 114 is revoked. peddler on Broad street and discovered the REPUBLICAN SCHEMERS DEFEATED. Jersey City Democrats Not to be Disfran. chiecd in This Easy Way.

The Republican conspiracy to disfranchise some 300 Democratic voters in the First pre cinct of the Fifth Assembly district in Jersey City, got a black eye in the Court of Common Pleas vesterday. As was stated in THE SU yesterday, John F. Murray, a clerk in the Post Office, took a room at 174 Steuben street, which was hired for him by Martin Finck, Deputy Internal Revenue Collector. The object of locating Murray there was to give him a legal residence in the precinct. Only a legal voter in law against men who were assumed to been illegally registered. Murray picked out from the registry list about 300 names of laboring men and had the men served with notices to appear in the Common Pleas Court yesterday morning and show cause why their names should not be stricken from the registry list on the ground that they were not legal voters. The plotters expected that fourfifths of the men would not appear, some be cause they could not afford to lose a day's work, and others because they would not take the trouble to go to court and establish their right to vote. The scheme was knocked out. however, by the stupidity of the schemers. Not one of the notices had any name signed to it. When the matter came up in court before Judge Lippincott yesterday morning, Allan L. McDermott, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, was there. Ex Judge Seymour appeared for the Republican Campaign Commit-

Holding one of the notices in his hand. Mr. Holding one of the notices in his hand, Mr. McDermott said:

"If your Honor please, I appear here for Michael Bennett, a resident of 148 Steuben street and a legal voter. He has received a notice to appear here and show cause why his name should not be stricken from the registry. The notice is not signed. It alleges crime, and if it is not true, some one is liable to indictment. It is but right and just that the name of the person making the complaint should be signed to the notice."

Ex-Judge Seymour held that as the notice accomplished its purpose of bringing to court any person supposed to have been illegally registered it was not necessary that it should be signed.

accomplished its purpose of bringing to court any person supposed to have been illegally registered it was not necessary that it should be signed.

Judge Lippincott volunteered some information to make matters easier for the inwers:

"I don't say positively," he said, "that the notice should be signed, but it seems to me that it ought to be; that it should have the name of a legal voter attached. The Court received one of these notices a fewdays ago. The man who received it handed it to us and asked our advice. The Court has made a very careful examination of the law, and come to the conclusion that the notices must be signed by some one who has an interest in the election as a voter or otherwise. The Court volunteers this information so that you may have ample time to correct errors in the notices."

Ex.Judge Seymour argued that the name of a complainant was not necessary. If a man served with a notice was a legal voter, all he had to do was to appear in court and proveithat fact. If he did not apnear, then his name should be stricken from the registry.

Judge Seymour did not seem to realize that he had revealed the whole plot. Every man who was served with a notice is a laboring man, and not one in ton of them could afford to lose a day's pay to prove his right to vote when some anonymous politician questions it. The Republican managers calculated on disfranchising at least 250 Democrats through their clever little plot, but they are disappointed.

"I am as anxions to have an honest election," exclaimed Mr. McDermott, as that Republican army is all the way from its Archangel Quay to the immedulate Postmaster Dickinson, but we may as well talk plain. This is simply a scheme to deprive Democrats of the right to vote. Mr. Seymour says Col. Dickinson is willing to sign these notices—"

"No I didn't!" exclaimed Mr. Seymour.

"One of the men who received a notice," continued of the deprive Democrats of the right to vote, Mr. Seymour says Col. Dickinson is willing to sign these notice reanting that man to prove his right."

At the close of the argument, which was continued for some time, Judge Lippincott decided that the notice without a signature was not a legal process, and the case was thrown out of court. The Republican County Committee is greatly chagrined at the ignominious failure of the elaborate scheme to disfranchise Democratic voters.

A Good Beal of Difference. Bourke Cockran denies that he called Mr.

Fassett "the incarnation of a drunken, lying, swearing scold," as the Herald reported him as saying in a speech at Jones's Wood Wednes-day night. Mr. Cockran says he he did say that Mr. Fassett had so shrunk in importance since he began the campaign that his state-ments now reminded Mr. Cockran of those of a drunken, lying, screaming sould. WHY DID TE DO IT, MAN?

John Graham Confesses that He Invented the Steckler Pamily, For Governor, Jacob S. Fassett. For Governor, Jacob S. Fassett. For Lieutenant-Governor, John W. Vrooman.

Per Judge of the Court of Appeals, Aifred Steckler, For Supreme Court Justice, Louis Steckler, For Senator, Uncle Dinkel, For Everything Else, Charles Steckler.

Something is going to drop over in the Tenth on election day. Its name is Dinkel. He'll fall on the whole ticket and smash it. The Steckier combination is regarded by the voters of the Tenth district as the most disreputable and the most amusing thing in politics. John Graham acknowleges the responsibility of bringing the Stecklers into politics and he says he's sorry for it. He told the story yesterday to a Sun reporter: "For God's sake," he said, "don't say that I brought them out."

Relentless justice demands that the responsibility be placed where it belongs. Nine years ago, Graham said, he and the Steeklers belonged to the Jake Patterson Club, the Repubican organization of the district. "I was then Patterson's lieutenant. The Stecklers wanted me to be their friend, and I argued I couldn't stomach a nomination the Republicans made, and one morning I went down to the Stecklers' office and asked Alfred if he wouldn't get into the race as an independent. He wouldn't hear of it. I was in the Post Office then. I said to him, Look here, I've got something to lose. You've got nothing. It won't help me any to have you in the race, but it will be a hig advertisement for your business. Say, I'd no more than got the word 'advertisement' out of my mouth than his face beamed, and he exclaimed: "Say, I'm in it." Oh, Heavens!" (John Graham hung his head and sighed.) "They've been faking the newspapers ever since" the exclaimed after his display of contrition!, "Yes, sir, that's the secret of Stecklerism. Why, didn't they used to buy $200 worth of cut-rate turkey to give to the poor every year, and didn't they get $10,000 worth of advertisement? Didn't they." (Again John Graham sighed. Then he exclaimed flercely.) "I blame myself for bringing them out, but I blame the newspreers for keeping them in. I won't stand the responsibility alone, I won't I won't "and he heaved the biggest sigh of the campaign.

John Graham also claims the responsibility

I won't stand the responsibility alone, I won't I won't!" and he heaved the biggest sigh of the campaign.

John Grahum also claims the responsibility of organizing the Steekler Association. "I'll tell you," he said. "how they got so many members. They had an endowment scheme. Now, mind you, these men are lawyers and they ought to know the law. Well, their scheme was to have a thousand-dollar benefit organization. Every man was to have an insurance of $1,000 on his life. They ran it that way for three menths and the membership jumped to a thousand or so and $8,000 came into the treasury. Then they held a meeting and announced that the law wouldn't permit them to carry out the plan. Ah, the Stecklers are dandles!"

and announced that the law wouldn't permit them to carry out the plan. Ah, the Stecklers are dandies!"

The Stecklers pose as tiger hunters because they say Tammany Hall has misruled the city. Their own absolute disinterestedness is remarkable. They don't want anything, so they say. John Graham told another story. It was this: As soon as it was known that Justice Brady was dead Charles Steckler hustice Brady was dead Charles Steckler hustice down to a station of the elevated railroad where he knew Tom Gilroy would come, and when he caught him demanded the Judgeship for one of the brothers. "Why, before Judge Brady's body was cold one of them was on an express train bound for Albany to see Goy. Hill. The Governor bowed him out for the cold-blooded exhibition. Oh, they're disinterested? They don't want anything."

One of the banners that will be carried in Saturday night's monster demonstration in the district will be:

"Who wants the earth?
Ask the Steckler brothers."

The biggest demonstration before the funeral on election day will be on Saturday evening when all the voters in the district except the Stecklers and their clients will turn out in parade. Here are a few of the banners they will carry:

AUSGESPIELT-DIE STECKLER HEERSCHAF. ENGEL FURNISHED THE TURKEYS. THE STECKLERS CLAIMED THE CREDIT.

LABOR MEN FOR FLOWER. Mr. George Blate Says They Cannot be Led

ALBANY, Oct. 29.-George Blair was interviewed to-day in regard to the action of labor on election day, and with reference to the attacks being made against the Democratic State ticket and especially the candidate for Attorney General, Mr. Rosendale, Mr. Blair said that well-informed labor men cannot be ed away from the Democratic ticket led away from the Democratic ticket, as they are pretty well posted upon what these attacks mean. They know that a Republican senate has for years opposed the passage of a law that would prevent such prosecutions as the clothing cutters experienced at Rochester. They know that every labor law was placed upon the statute books by the Democratic members of the Legislature, sanctioned by a Democratic Governor. They know the men going about the State are in the employ of the Republican party, and they also know that no honest laber man in this State can honestly attack the Democratic party as now conducted, for that party can claim labor support by its record, and labor men, to whatever party they belong, should sustain the Democratic ticket as a rebuke to the Republican party for their refusal to pass labor laws.

THE OHIO CAMPAIGN.

Both Sides Say They Will Win-Campbell's

Vigorous Campaign. CINCINNATI, Oct. 20.-Two weeks ago Repub lican leaders were indulging in wild talk of from thirty to forty thousand plurality for Me Kinley. To-day it is evident that they will be satisfied with a far less figure. In fact, a Republican authority figures out among his friends that the Republican State ticket will friends that the Ropublican State ticket will pull through by about five thousand. This, in view of the tremendous registration all over the State, and the consequent large vote that will be polled, is drawing it pretty fine. Campbell's friends, on the other hand, are more hopeful from day to day, claiming that he will come down to Cincinnait with a plurality of twelve thousand. If he does he will again be Ohlo's Governor, as the most sanguine Republicans do not expect McKinley to carry this city and county by more than eight thousand. Gov. Campbell is closing his campaign with great vigor, delivering some days as many as five speeches, and attracting great throngs.

Mr. Levy Left Because He is a Democrat, Since the resignation of Nathan S. Levy from the County Democracy organization of the Eighth Assembly district the few persons who still remain in the organization have been busy circulating stories detrimental to Mr Levy. Among other things said by these enemies of Democracy is a story to the effect that mies of Democracy is a story to the effect that Levy was induced to resign as a County Democrat by a message sent him that he would be rewarded for his withdrawal by boing made a Police Justice. This story has been told so persistently that Mr. Levy called on a prominent Tammany man on Tuesday and indignantly denied that any promise of any sort had been a factor in inducing him to foisake the County Democracy, and that the only feeling that prompted him was a desire to get into an organization whose Democracy could not be doubted. Yesterday Mr. Levy sent a letter to Mr. Croker, making a clear and explicit denial of the report.

The P. M. L. Deserts Mr. Randall.

After an unavailing attempt on the part of the P. M. L. to induce Samuel H. Randall, the Republican candidate for Assembly in the Nine-teenth district, to withdraw from the race, the League has issued a manifesto detailing it reasons for making this attempt and formally withdrawing its support from Mr. Randall. The charges against him, which the League is now actively circulating, are based upon nileged misconduct during Mr. Randall's practice as a lawyer. In brief, Mr. Randall's practice as a lawyer. In brief, Mr. Randall's practice of the superior Court of Massachusetts for professional misconduct, and of being proceeded against in this State in 1874 for contempt committed while he was attorney for a judgment debtor concerning a payment of money to be made by the Chamberlain. Mr. Randall carried this case to the Court of Appeals, where it was decided that he had not been technically guilty of contempt. reasons for making this attempt and formally

LABOR AGAINST FASSETT.

CLEVELAND AND BILL WRITE TO THE COOPER UNION MEETING.

Congressman Cummings as a Trade Union Man Exposes Fassett's Record as a Fer-sistent Obstructor of Labor Legislatios.

An enthusiastic "Anti-Fassett" meeting was held at Cooper Union Hall last night under the call of the Printing Trades League. Ower favor of the Democratic ticket, and denounced Mr. Fassett as the enemy of organized labor Loud cheering greeted the name of Gov. Hill when the speaker said that "of all the Gov ernors none has ever done so much to aid the cause of labor as David B. Hill." Mr. Kinde ion then read these letters, which were roundly cheered: Ocen J. Kindelon, Esq. "DEAR Sin: The fact that the words 'Anti-

Fassett' appear in the name of the organization which assembles in mass meeting next

Thursday evening is enough to prompt me to wish its success. I am earnestly in favor of Mr. Flower's election as Governor, and I am opposed to his opponent's aspirations on any conceivable ground. I hope your organization will be able to do good service in the direction indicated by its name, because I believe such effort will be in aid of the cause of good State government and in furtherance of the ascendancy of sound political principles. Yours very truly, cendancy of sound political principles. Yours very truly.

"Dear Sir: I am in receipt of your letter of the 27th inst. informing me of the mass meeting to be held under the auspices of the Printing Trades Lengue on Thursday evening next at Cooper Union Hall. The object of the meeting, as I am informed, is not only to oppose the election of Mr. Fassett to the Governorship, but to aid in every reasonable way the election of Mr. Flower. The interests of the printers of the city and State will be safe in Mr. Flower's hands. He represents the Democrate party, and that party is the friend of workingmen, and especially the printers. The friendship of Democrats has been demonstrated time and time again in the Legislature of our State. I trust the meeting will be a success, and that victory will crown our efforts this fall. Very truly yours.

success, and that victory will crown our efforts this fall. Very truly yours,

"David B. Hill."

The orator of the evening was Mr. Amos J. Cummings, who was introduced as "the friend of the workingman in Congress." He said:

"I shall not address you from a political standpoint, but from the standpoint of a member of a trades union. If you want to know which of the two candidates for Governor is in favor of the laboring man go to the records. Both have been in public life. Mr. Fassett has been a State Senator for six years, and while Senator he owned a daily newspaper. He refused during those six years to pay union rates to his printers. Three days after he was nominated for Governor he saw fit iat the suggestion of Tom Platt, I suppose to pay union rates in his office, as the other Elmira papers did. In 1887 Fassett was against all the labor bills proposed in the State Senate. He voted for the repeal of the half-holiday law. In 1888 he voted for one bill out of seventeen asked for by labor organizations. In 1883 his record was so black that the labor organizations blacklisted him. Fassett acknowledged that he was responsible for the defeat of the State Printing bill.

"At a political meeting some nights ago Mr. Joseph C. Hendrix told a story of a man who had a white sheep, and wanted a black one. So he dyed his white sheep black. What is the difference between this man and Mr. Fassett? Why, one is a lamb dyer and the other—is not! (Applause and cheers.) Mr. Fassett yoled to reduce the wages of pilots at Sandy Hook and Hell Gate. On the other hand, Mr. Flower is a firm friend of the laboring man, because in his youth he was a member of a trades union."

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved: By the union printers, pressmen, atereotypers, bookbinders, hatters, railway employees, carpenters, bricklayers, and other workmen of New York, in mass meeting at Cooper Institute, that the annual reports of the State Workingmon's Assembly, the State Branch of the American Federation of Labor, and the State K, of L. Stoat Fassett as the most prominent and persistent enemy of organized labor in this State. Resided, That in view of a misunderstanding as to the attitude of the Knights of Labor in this campaign we readirm that portion of their Legislative Committee's recent report with regard to the defeat of the anti-Pinkerton and anti-Conspiracy bills, as follows:

ANTI-PINKENTON BILL.—Although this bill passed the Assembly and went to the Senate on March 4, we could not get the Senate Judiciary Committee to give us a hearing on the bill until April 1. * * Chairman Robertson seemed to be the whole committee, and he ruled that we could have but five minutes. * * Senator O'Connor, later on, in reply to a question as to what had become of the Anti-Pinkerton bill, said it was in the Judiciary Committee, and should remain there if he could keep it there, as no one wanted it but organized law breakers. ATRIL.—There was a determined opposition of the Senate to this bill. * * * The Judiciary Committee advocate its passage, for they did not want to assist in breaking up the convenient deadlock in the Senate. Received, Therefore, that the Republican majority of the State Senate of 1801 is wholly responsible for the defeat of the Anti-Pinkerton bill, the auti-Conspiracy bill, the State Printing Office bill, the Employers Lushitity bill, and the Weekly Pay bill, and the leader of the Snate Senate of 1801 is wholly responsible for the workingmen of the entire city and State; and be it further.

Received, That with these same sources of official information as our guide, we declare Senator George F. Received to be a sincere and consistent friend of organized labor; we recommend him for resection to the workingmen of the sate received and state; and be it further.
